Come experience this "Jewel in the forest," a remote spot on the Minnesota-Canadian border—rich in history! Capture the essence of the last several hundred years. Learn how the Ojibwe Indians fished these waters, how the French-Canadian voyageurs portaged their 26-foot canoes with packs of furs and trading goods around the falls. Listen to stories of how the gold miners took steamers from here to the Rainy Lake's of how lumberjacks brought thousands of logs through the dam in the early part of the century. During the 1920s commercial fishermen auctioned off their catches in 100 pound boxes at the docks while in the Prohibition era bootleggers distilled and sold near the hotel and surrounding areas. The hotel itself was constructed from 1910 to 1913 by a timber baron and was reputedly financed by Madame Nellie Bly. Come see for yourself how this heritage has been preserved and hear the rich stories of a bygone era in a wilderness that has remained unspoiled.
